How do you feel about this skill?

I feel that my task and time management skills are at a developing stage. I'm generally able to meet deadlines and organize my workload, but I sometimes struggle with prioritizing tasks effectively or underestimating how long certain things will take. I'm aware that this is an area where I could improve, and I'm actively working on strategies like using to-do lists to stay on track. I believe with more practice and structure, I can continue to build this skill further.
